1. 125 KNOJ Border Guard Regiment. The 125 KNOJ Border Guard Regiment has its headquarters at Stari Becej. The Regiment consists of the following battalions: the 275 Battalion with headquarters at Kikinda; a battalion with headquarters at Knezevac; and a battalion with headquarters at Vrsac. Commanding officer of the 275 Battalion is Major Marjan Zitnik. Chief of staff of the 275 Battalion is Captain Goloshiev.
2. The 120 Border Guard Company<sup>1</sup>, of the 275 KNOJ Border Guard Battalion, has its headquarters at Jassa Tomic. Other companies of the 275 Battalion are located at Hetin and Veliko Banatsko Selo. The commanding officer of the 120 Company is Jassa Tomic (sic). The political commissar is First Lieutenant Vaso. Warrant Officer Miho Ajcic is in charge of the Youth Organization<sup>2</sup>. There are about 30 men assigned to the headquarters of the 120 Company.
3. The 120 KNOJ Border Guard Company is composed of about 260 men, divided into three platoons. These platoons are responsible for guarding the Yugoslav-Rumanian border from blockhouse 34 to blockhouse 46 (sic). In each blockhouse there are:
  - a. 16 men armed with Mauser rifles, remodeled in Yugoslavia;
  - b. Four submachine guns of German construction; and
  - c. One German Shartz machine gun.

5. Escapees from Rumania. From November 1950 to the end of October 1951 two Rumanian militiamen, two Rumanian border guards, and one civilian escaped into Yugoslavia across the border sector patrolled by the 120 KNOJ Border Guard Company. During that period two Rumanian civilians were killed by Rumanian border guards while attempting an escape into Yugoslavia.

1. [redacted] Comment: This may be an error in designation and may actually refer to the 120 KNOJ Border Guard Battalion located at Djeviljela [redacted]
